Core Architectural Overview & Diagnostics Topology

Rakuten Viki recurring billing operates on automated merchant tokenization. When a user subscribes, an active recurring mandate is scheduled in the billing database. Merely signing out of hardware or deleting applications does not alter the database state. To stop automatic charges, the subscriber must execute an explicit cancellation action that flags the subscription status as 'Cancelled - Pending Expiration'.

When third-party providers (Apple Media Services, Google Play, or Roku Pay) process billing, the cancellation command must originate from the respective third-party platform via webhook API. Calling toll-free (855) 945-5553 connects subscribers with authorized representatives who can inspect active billing mandates, verify cancellation status, and ensure recurring charges cease permanently.

Step 1: Access the Viki Web Cancellation Portal

To cancel automatic renewal, open a desktop or mobile web browser and navigate directly to viki.com. You cannot disable autopay from within smart TV applications (such as Samsung, LG, or Fire TV) due to native app store restrictions.

Log into your account, click on your profile avatar in the upper right corner, and select 'Subscription & Settings'. This opens your active subscription overview.

Step 2: Initiate the Subscription Cancellation Workflow

On your subscription overview page, locate the 'Current Plan' section detailing your plan tier and renewal date. Look for the link labeled 'Cancel Subscription' located beneath your plan details.

Click 'Cancel Subscription'. The system will initiate a multi-step retention workflow designed to confirm your intent to terminate automatic recurring debits.

Step 3: Complete All Confirmation Prompts

The cancellation workflow will present informational prompts detailing the benefits you will lose upon expiration. Click 'Continue to Cancel'. You may be asked to provide a cancellation reason (such as 'Too expensive' or 'Temporary break').

Select a reason and click the final confirmation button labeled 'Yes, Cancel Subscription'. If you close your browser before clicking this final button, cancellation will NOT be registered by the server.

Step 4: Verify Official Cancellation Confirmation Banner

Once cancellation is successfully recorded, the webpage will update with a confirmation message stating: 'Your subscription has been cancelled'. Your plan status will update to 'Expires on [Date]'.

Simultaneously, an automated confirmation email will be dispatched to your registered address. Keep this email as permanent documentation proving you terminated auto-renewal prior to the billing cutoff.

Step 5: Cancel Viki Pass Billed Through Apple ID (iPhone/iPad)

If your subscription was purchased through the Viki iOS application, your billing is administered exclusively by Apple Media Services, and the Viki website will display 'Subscription managed by Apple'.

On your iPhone or iPad, open Settings > [Your Name] > Subscriptions. Tap 'Viki', select 'Cancel Subscription', and confirm. Your subscription will expire at the end of the current billing period without further charges.

Android users who subscribed via the Google Play Store must cancel recurring billing through Google Play account settings. On your Android phone, open the Google Play Store app.

Tap your profile icon at the top right, select 'Payments & subscriptions' > 'Subscriptions', tap 'Viki: Asian Dramas & Movies', and select 'Cancel subscription'. Follow the prompts to confirm termination.

On your Roku TV home screen, highlight the Viki channel tile, press the Star (Options) button on your remote, select 'Manage Subscription', and choose 'Cancel Subscription'. Alternatively, log into my.roku.com to cancel via web.

Step 8: Retain Full Viewing Privileges Through Expiration Date

Disabling automatic renewal does NOT terminate your viewing access immediately. Because Viki Pass subscriptions are prepaid in advance, you retain full commercial-free HD viewing privileges until the final day of your current billing period.

You can continue watching your favorite Asian dramas and movies until the expiration date printed on your dashboard. No further automated debits will occur after that date.

Step 9: Remove Stored Credit Card Details Post-Expiration

Once your prepaid access period concludes and your account status transitions to 'Expired', you can safely delete your stored payment card from Viki merchant vaults.

Navigate to 'Subscription & Settings' > 'Payment Details' and click 'Delete Card' or 'Remove Payment Method'. This guarantees that no accidental reactivation charges can occur in the future.

Step 10: Troubleshoot Missing or Greyed-Out Cancel Buttons

If the 'Cancel Subscription' button is missing, unclickable, or greyed out on your account page, your browser is either running an aggressive ad-blocker or your subscription is managed by a third-party merchant.

Disable browser extensions or open an Incognito window. Check whether your plan status indicates Apple, Google, or Roku management. If the cancel button remains inaccessible, call (855) 945-5553 for live agent cancellation.

Step 11: Prevent Accidental Annual Subscription Renewals

Annual Viki Pass subscriptions renew automatically every 12 months unless cancelled prior to the anniversary date. Because annual subscriptions involve larger single debits, setting calendar reminders is recommended.

You can cancel auto-renewal immediately after purchasing an annual plan. You will retain full access for the entire 12 months, and the subscription will expire naturally without renewing. For renewal advice, call (855) 945-5553.
